

AMUSEMENTS.

ALOHAPARK

BOXING

CARNIVAL

Saturday, June 11

CORNBYN

Welter-Weight Champion of San Francisco, vs.

NELSON

of Camp Very.
Fifteen Rounds.JIM HAOA VS. T. TERRIEU,
Six Rounds.YOUNG GANS VS. SA'LOR SAMMY,
Four Rounds.Ringside, $2; Reserved $1.50 and $1
General Admission, 50c.
Begins at 8:15 p. m.

Park Theater

—THE GREAT ISSONS—

Musical Artists
MINETTE RHODES,
Solo Comic
CARL WALLNER,
Whistler
CUNHA'S ORCHESTRA
—and—
MOTION PICTURES.

Admission5, 10, 15c.

Princess Skating
RINK

Open Every Afternoon and Evening

"GET THE HABIT"

LEARN TO ROLLER SKATE

Novelty Theater

Cor Nuuanu and Pauahi Sts

WEDNESDAY AND SATURDAY
MATINEES.

Feature Film

Roosevelt in Africa

Empire Theater

HOTEL STREET

Elliott & Royal

In Mr. Royal's own playlets.

Admission15c, 10c, 5c

Baseball

Honolulu Athletic Park

Sunday, June 12, 1910.

U. S. M. C. vs. C. A. C.

J. A. C. vs. P. A. C.

ADMISSION25, 15c and 10c

SPECIAL SERIES.

Twelve Games,

WASEDA UNIVERSITY

VS.

OAHU LEAGUE AND ALL-HAWAII

Season Commencing July 3, 1910.

Box Plan for Season Tickets at Chan-ber Drug Co.

FIRE INSURANCE

ATLAS ASSURANCE COMPANY OF
LONDON.NEW YORK UNDERWRITERS AGENCY.PROVIDENCE WASHINGTON IN-SURANCE COMPANY.The B. F. Dillingham Co., Ltd.
General Agents for Hawaii.

Fourth Floor, Stangenwald Building.

Silver Plate

Flat Ware

30 PER CENT OFF

J. A. R. VIEIRA & CO.
113 HOTEL STREET.TOM SHARP, The Painter
Elite Building
Phone 397

SHARP SIGNS

Signs Of All Kinds. Scenic
Work, Decorating, Graining
Paper Hanging, Etc., Etc.

SOCIETY

BY MRS. RIVENBURGH.

One of the most notable weddings that have taken place in Honolulu was that of Wednesday evening when Miss Alice Spalding, the beautiful daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Irwin Spalding, became the bride of Lieutenant George Cleveland Bowen, U. S. A., of Fort Shafter, one of the most popular young officers of the service set.

Bishop Restarick performed the ceremony at Saint Andrew's Cathedral at eight thirty amidst a strictly military atmosphere. Fully eight hundred people were in attendance.

The decorations of the cathedral were marked by simplicity and elegance, the pure white altar being adorned with brass vases of Easter lilies and towering graceful palms, while the choir and chancel were banked with white daisies and maidenhair ferns. Masses of Easter and calla lilies filled every nook and corner. Two large quaint baskets were filled to overflowing with pink Duchess roses, with pink satin streamers and bows tied to the handles.

The first three pews on either side were reserved for the family of the bride and most intimate friends of the groom and were designated by tall sprays of Easter lilies tied with long streamers of pink satin ribbon.

Promptly at half after eight the choir entered, singing, and took their places behind the embankment of floral beauty. After a short silence the soft strains of the grand organ were heard in Lohengrin's wedding march. At this juncture, the four ushers in full military regalia advanced and, stopping abruptly two on each side, drew forth their sabers, holding them on high while Lieut. Bowen and his best man, Lieut. McLeary of Fort Shafter, in full regiments passed under the arch, followed by all the members of the bridal party. The ushers were Lieutenants Chilton A. Pardee, James and Granger.

Preceded by six little flower girls, the maid of honor and the matron of honor, the bride entered, a vision of loveliness, leaning upon the arm of her father. She wore an exquisite gown of train of white satin heavily embroidered in white marguerites, with a princess panel extending down the entire front of rose point lace (which had been a wedding gift), with reveré cuffs of the same on the new silk net peasant sleeves which were a distinctive feature of her robe. The train was very long and four panniers front and back extending from the shoulders were caught to the hem of the gown by clusters of orange buds. She wore real orange blossoms in her veil, which was long, and carried no flowers, but a white kid book called Holy Wedlock and a rose point lace handkerchief, which is an old English idea.

The ring-bearer was Charles Chapman, the manly little son of Captain Chapman of Fort Shafter, who led the dainty flower bearers. These were Rhoda Ballentyne, Kealoha Waterhouse, Katherine Kennedy, Alice Campbell, Margaret Campbell and Elsie Phillips. They were dressed in pink chiffon empire frocks to the ankles, with pink wreaths of rose buds in their hair and carrying director wands of pink satin surmounted by nosegays of duchess roses.

Following these came the maid of honor, Miss Ethel Spalding, and the matron of honor, Mrs. M. Garrett, sisters of the bride, who were handsomely gowned.

Miss Spalding wore a gown of embroidered French cloth over pink taffeta, made en train with long sleeves and yoke of silver tissue. The overdress was edged with silver fringe and fell in two points at the back. She was very dainty wearing a wreath of silver foliage and carrying a shower bouquet of duchess roses.

Mrs. Garrett wore what once had been her own wedding gown. It was of heavy ivory satin en train with an overdress trimmed with golden tissue. The yoke and sleeves were of embroidered gold net and the skirt was caught at the hem on one side by a large crushed bow of the satin. The ceremony was simple but impressive and to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March the bridal party left the church and entering autos sped out to the beautiful home of the bride's parents on Punahou street where a sumptuous supper was served for only the bridal party and family of the bride. No reception was held.

The house was ablaze with pink and green, soft silk shaded candelabra adding to the effect. In the artistic drawing room each small side table held brass jardinières and vases of pink bride roses, carnations and white marguerites, while in the back parlor a table was expanded to its limit to hold the dazzling array of gifts to the fair bride. A handsome drawn work scarf lay over the table on which rested a tall cut glass vase of American Beauty roses, while shaded candles shed a pink glow over the myriad of costly and elegant gifts.

The table for the bridal party was on the lanai off the dining room, set out among a little fairyland of palms and young bamboo, hanging baskets of luxurious maidenhair ferns and great sprays of the fragrant cathartus carpus flowers, while young pepper trailers formed dainty portieres in the doorways.

The bride's table supported a centerpiece of bride's roses and maidenhair ferns artistically arranged in a brass basket to whose massive handle was tied a large bow of delicate pink tulle. Here covers were laid for nine, the guests being Mr. and Mrs. George Bowen, Lieut. Pardee of Fort Shafter, Lieut. Granger of the Fifth Cavalry, Leliehua, Lieut. James, Lieut. McLeary, Miss Spalding, Mrs. Garrett and Lieut. Chilton.

The place cards, which were painted in water colors by Mrs. Bowen, were little brides (none of whom, by the way, could bear comparison with the original) on whose heads were tied real white tulle. An artistic pale blue Japanese lantern for a drop light amidst trailers of asparagus fern and candelabra in silver filigree and golden fringe completed the dainty picture.

In the dining room Mr. and Mrs. Spalding, Bishop and Mrs. Restarick, Miss Helen and Mr. Irwin Spalding were seated at a round table, whose pink silk shaded candelabra, place cards of small cupids and centerpiece of roses in a brass basket were most attractive, while the decorations consisted of pink roses and sprays of the cathartus carpus.

The luxurious drawing room of Mr. and Mrs. Spalding with its rich and costly furnishings, its Marquesian statues, Persian rugs and Chinese ebony was adorned with numbers of heavy brass jardinières, huge bowls filled with white and gold marguerites, pink carnations and great sprays of the fragrant and luxuriant cathartus carpus flowers, the chandeliers in all the rooms being all but hidden in trailers of asparagus fern.

In the back parlor the dazzling gifts were arranged on a very long table upon an immense Mexican cloth which was adorned with a single tall cut glass vase of American Beauty roses and soft pink silk shaded candelabra, whose pale glow fell on the cut glass, silver, gold and jewels, causing them to scintillate bewilderingly. Among these wonderfully beautiful gifts were elegant fruit dishes of rock crystal which is usurping the place in refined homes which cut glass has until recently occupied; silver services for coffee, tea and chocolate, hand-painted chocolate sets, whole sets in Canton ware, brass bowls and jardinières; complete sets of table silver, complete sets of dollies and centerpieces, a dozen bread and butter plates of heavy silver with monogram engraved, a small watch of dark blue enamelled and inset with diamonds, with a chateleine pin representing a blue dove with diamonds inlaid on the wings; a handsome brooch of tiny pearls twined in a lover's knot, a beautiful tray and many other rare and beautiful things.

One of the most striking gifts which came all the way from Italy, sent by Mrs. Savery who was here last winter, was a box containing a set of orange spoons and knives. The spoons are of gold with handles bearing the Italian coat-of-arms, while the silver knives have pearl handles. The bride's gifts to her sisters were empire wreaths of pearls, and the groom's gift was a handsome pendant of pearls.

After gazing at and admiring this gorgeous array of gifts with many congratulations and good wishes, the guests repaired to the supper.

Lieut. and Mrs. Bowen after the festivities drove up to Tantalus, where they will spend a ten-day honeymoon at the country home of General and Mrs. Davis. Their future home will be at Fort Shafter, where Mrs. Bowen will be pleased to receive her friends.

Mrs. Edward H. Harriman and Miss Carol Harriman will leave New York for California this week. They will spend only a few days here, sailing early in June for Honolulu, where they will pass the summer. Mrs. Harriman and her daughter have many friends in this city, but owing to the fact that they are in mourning no formal entertainments will be given for them. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carey Rumsey, whose wedding took place Thursday, will be at Arden during the summer months.—Chronicle.

Admiral and Mrs. Corwin P. Rees entertained at a beautiful appointed dinner for twelve on Tuesday evening in honor of Mr. William G. Irwin. The home was made very pretty and attractive for the occasion and the graciousness of the host and hostess contributed to make the affair most delightful.

The table decorations were composed of white carnations and maidenhair fern, and the place cards were exquisitely dainty. Those present at this pretty social function were: Mr. Irwin, Mrs. Richard Ivers, Major and Mrs. Dunning, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dillingham, Mrs. Hyde-Smith, Miss Mae Damon, Dr. Tucker Smith, U. S. N., and Mr. Muhlenhoff.

Among the well known local people who departed in the Sierra for the coast on Wednesday were Governor and Mrs. Walter F. Frear, who are taking a hurried trip east; Mr. W. W. Goodale, who is combining business and pleasure in a trip along the Pacific coast and through some of the eastern states; Dr. and Mrs. J. Chris O'Day, who will make their permanent home in Portland, Oregon and Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Belser and child who are taking a six week's vacation.

Mrs. George Potter was one of the week's charming hostesses when she entertained seven tables at an informal bridge afternoon on Wednesday in the beautiful grounds of the Seaside Hotel at Waikiki in honor of Mrs. E. D. Tenney and her house guest, Mrs. Carrie Jacobs Bond. Although lacking the more pretentious atmosphere of formality the affair was one of the daintiest, merriest and most delightful of its kind ever given here.

Out on the smooth shady green lawn under the great overhanging trees a lanai had been erected of bamboo and palms and enclosed on the windward side by draped American and Hawaiian flags.

Within its enclosure with the green sward for a carpet the guests were seated at seven tables to contest in the all absorbing games of bridge.

With few exceptions the guests were attired very simply and prettily, lingerie frocks in all the pastel shades and white, with lingerie and embroidered hats massed with flowers being in evidence.

The prizes for each table were in the form of exquisite real lace handkerchiefs, and during the afternoon light and delicious refreshments were served by pretty young girls in white assisting Mrs. Potter.

The rooms of the main building, including the library and lounge room and private dining room at the Seaside were decorated with beautiful panicles and American Beauty roses.

Among those present were Mrs. Carrie Jacobs Bond, Mrs. E. D. Tenney, Mrs. Corwin P. Rees, Mrs. Herman Focke, Mrs. Holloway, Mrs. Armin Hanneberg, Mrs. Mannie Phillips, Mrs. Byron Baird, Mrs. J. Walker, Misses Margaret and Agnes Walker, Mrs. Percy Benson, Mrs. Rejules, Mrs. Laughlin, Mrs. Fred Macfarlane, Miss Wall, Mrs. Harold Dillingham, Mrs. Richard Ivers, Mrs. Hyde-Smith, Mrs. Clive Davies, and Mrs.

Clifford High; while those assisting the hostess during the afternoon were Miss Alice Roth, Alice and Lady Macfarlane, Minnie Berger and Violet Makee.

The refreshments were served on the lawn.

Mrs. Corwin P. Rees, wife of Admiral Rees, and Mrs. Samuel W. Dunning, wife of Major Dunning U. S. A., of Fort Shafter, left yesterday afternoon for "Kualoa," the rustic home of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Swanzy on the windward side of the island, where they expect to retire from the social whirl for a week or ten days.

Mrs. Richard Ivers entertained last evening at a dinner for twelve in honor of Mr. W. G. Irwin. The decorations were carried out in pink carnations and maidenhair ferns, and the place cards were Hawaiian scenes.

One of the prominent figures gracing Honolulu society at present is Mrs. Eleanor Hyde-Smith of San Francisco who holds a prominent place in the smart set of the metropolis. She has won a legion of warm friends during her sojourn in these islands and is the motif of much entertaining here. Mrs. Hyde-Smith is famous for hospitality in her own city and her many friends there are eagerly anticipating her return. She is a lovely, gracious lady, with sweet, unaffected manners and a great share of blonde beauty, which inspire admiration wherever she goes. She has for some months been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Harold Dillingham, who, by the way, has inherited all the charms of her mother. This is her second trip to the islands. A little over a year ago Mrs. Hyde-Smith visited her daughter. She expects to leave for her home in San Francisco about July 26.

Mrs. Harold Dillingham was the charming hostess on Monday evening at a handsome dinner in honor of Mr. W. G. Irwin. Palms and ferns were effectively used in the decoration of the spacious and beautiful home, red and white being the feature of color tone in the large dining room. A centerpiece of these fragrant blossoms combined with maidenhair fern graced the table, the same blooms and ferns being profusely scattered over the lace centerpiece. The place cards were rich designs of the Hawaiian coat-of-arms in white and gold.

Those present at this attractive dinner were Mr. William G. Irwin, Admiral and Mrs. Corwin P. Rees, Major and Mrs. Samuel Dunning of Fort Shafter, Dr. and Mrs. C. B. Cooper, Mrs. Hyde-Smith, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ivers.

There is to be a gala time at the Outrigger Club this evening and doubtless hundreds of townspeople will make their way toward the seashore to enjoy the delights of the lavish entertainment, preparations for which have been in progress for some time.

The grounds will be elaborately lighted by colored lanterns strung from tree to tree and out over the water, there will be the Hawaiian band and the Fifth Cavalry band of Leliehua in attendance and both the Seaside and Moana hotels will be thrown open to the throng of dancers.

The grounds will be open at five p. m. when the guests, with tickets will be entitled to a delicious chowder supper, including fruit, biscuits and coffee, and will be at liberty to visit the various booths and participate in the dancing.

Among these booths and attractions which will all be beautifully decorated will be the candy booth under the supervision of Mrs. Raymond Brown, the soft drink booth of which Mrs. Gartley will have charge, the ice cream superintended by Mrs. Du Roi and assistants, and the coffee booth under the direction of Mrs. Sarah Newcomb and her able assistants, Mrs. Fuller, Mrs. Geo. Smithies and Miss Lucy Ward.

Everyone is familiar with the fact that Mrs. Fuller has gained fame as an expert brewer of coffee so it will be worth one's while to visit this booth and partake of a cup of the delicious beverage.

Some talent has been secured from the various theaters, who will perform on a stage erected in the grounds.

Mrs. A. A. Wilder is entertaining a few friends informally at her Waikiki home this afternoon at a buffet luncheon which will be served at fresco beneath the great hantree on the lawn.

A recent visitor at Burlingame was Miss Edith Kane of New York who arrived from Honolulu, having made a tour of the world with friends. She left for the East last week to join her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Grenville Kane at their country home in Tuxedo.—Chronicle.

On Thursday, May twenty-sixth, Mrs. Wm. Hyde Rice entertained at luncheon in honor of Mrs. Arthur Rice's wooden wedding anniversary. As the guest of honor arrived she was greeted by the soft strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march. Then she was showered with congratulations and a variety of wooden gifts were presented, much to her confusion as the party was a complete surprise. Luncheon was served on the lanai, the table decorations being Easter lilies and at each place was a dainty favor in the form of a quaint little box filled with candies. Those present were the family and their house guests.—Garden Island.

Mrs. E. Faxon Bishop is entertaining at a bridge luncheon this afternoon in honor of Mrs. Carrie Jacobs Bond, the famous musician and composer now visiting Honolulu.

Governor and Mrs. Walter F. Frear entertained at an elaborate dinner for twelve on Monday evening at "Arcadia" in honor of Mrs. Carrie Jacobs Bond, the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Tenney. The entire interior of the elegant and artistic home of the Governor and Mrs. Frear was a bower of pale pink, white branches of the fragrant cathartus carpus being effectively utilized, while the table was ablaze with pink begonia and maidenhair, with pink silk shaded candelabra. Those present were Mrs. Carrie Jacobs Bond, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Tenney, Chief Justice and Mrs. Ballou, Judge Beatty, Prof. Scott, Prof. Yamashima, Miss Ueka and Dr. Clarke.

The annal of the summer is full upon us, and somber tailored frocks have given way to fluffy dainty gowns and hats of lingerie, the latter crowned with a myriad of blossoms in every delicate hue. And, too, the parasols to match are coming out upon our thoroughfares, the grande dame holding hers, erect to avoid the sun's hot rays, while la petite belle turns hers with a coquettish twirl as it rests upon her shoulder.

The athletic girl is turning her eyes away toward the hills, and already parties have motored away from the dusty streets to nature's gardens, while many others are well on their journey toward the continent and to Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Dillingham of Honolulu will arrive in a few days on their way to Europe and will make a short visit in San Francisco before leaving for the East. They expect to Bill Buster's Letter To His Father.

Dear Pa:—

I've just learned about the gas water heaters, and, say, they are fine. You will remember how we used to always have a fight with Mary the cook when anyone wanted a bath; we would always have to go out and tell her to hump up the fire, as we wanted some hot water. If two of us wanted to take a bath, it meant to run the wood range all the afternoon, heat up the whole house, and before we got through everybody was cross. But now, with one of these new gas water heaters, you can have all the hot water you want in ten minutes.

They have one kind of water heater here which they call a Ruud, that all you have to do is to turn on the water at the hot water faucet in the bath, sink or wash bowl, and it turns on the gas which heats the water as fast as it runs. When you shut off the water it shuts off the gas. It works so fine you would almost believe it could think.

You can never realize what a luxury it is to have hot water whenever you want it. You don't have to wait even a minute. Then, another thing. You get clean, fresh water heated through a copper coil, while by the old way the boiler is full of stale water, with all the dirt and sediment settled in the bottom.

I'll tell you, Pa, I want you, Mother and Edna to come out here. We will get one of those pretty bungalows and fix it all up with a cabinet gas range, a Ruud water heater and reflex gas chandeliers. You see, with this new chandelier, all you have to do is to just pull a chain and all the lights go on at once. We will also have a new gas porch light on the lanai so that we can sit out there in the evenings and read. I'll tell you, Pa, you will think you have found Paradise, sure.

With love,

BILL.